Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claim 30 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over

Anderson et al. (US2004/0015566A1).

Claims 30: Anderson discloses the document processing device of claim 28,

Anderson does not disclose “wherein said document processing device memory comprises volatile memory”. However, Official Notice is taken that it is old and well known within the computing arts to include memory (e. g. RAM). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention was made to include a volatile memory (e. g. RAM) in Anderson. One would have been motivated to do so in order to keep data in volatile memory.
